The Creation: Axis Mundi (The Creation Series Book 1)

Synopsis

When the world ends, it won't be due to a nuclear fallout, or a man-made virus, or even a dominant visiting alien species. It will be because a NEW world is beginning. In seven days God created the world. This God will destroy it in even less. Will You Survive The Creation? Deep in the jungles of the Rainforest, a dying botanist has begun a search that could change the fate of humanity forever. Joining depraved scientists and ruthless mercenaries, he seeks to overcome humanity's one common enemy: Mortality. Meanwhile, plans have been laid by an eco-revolutionary group, led by rebel Faye Moanna, to put an end to the illegal deforestation taking place in the . But her true motives may compromise much more than their sociopolitical agenda. Because a frightening power is stirring in the , an event beginning that only occurred once in the history of the Earth -- during its process of Creation. And it will take more than tenacity and ingenuity to survive the coming seven days. For in order to Create, one must first Destroy.  This apocalyptic novel includes both Part Zero: In The Beginning, as well as Part One: Axis Mundi, in The Creation Series. 4.5 stars. THE CREATION is Part 1 of The Behr's Creation series. This centers around two groups. Group one, an eco-revolutionary crew set on going to Venezuela on the pretense of documenting "on film" the damage that deforestation is having on the world's ecosystem. However, a couple of members "most notably, leader Faye Grennith" have their own secret agendas for wanting to be there. Meanwhile, in Venezuela, Group two consists of unique, rugged and war trained mercenaries and deranged scientists, led by a dangerous, dying phytopharmacologist, James Dugan. They are searching for something else: Tukushkansha "The Shaman, who is rumored to know the secret to overcoming mortality. The two factions are about to learn that an unimaginable power "one that neither expected" is beginning to emerge in the . . . I'm honestly not sure what I was expecting when I began this book, but what I got was a story that captured my complete, undivided attention from the first to the very last page. There was not a single moment where I felt I could "skim" through a paragraph or two, as everything written seemed necessary to advance the story. All of the major characters were fleshed out well enough that I found myself "believing" in each of their personal motivations. By far the most extreme example was Dugan and his "team" "despite the horrors they committed in order to attain their goal, his driving desire never once seemed forced, and there was a part of me holding my breath every step of the way on their journey. The Behr captured the beauty and dangers of the Rainforests spectacularly. From impoverished villagers, to corrupt officials, I really felt as though I were seeing these events unfold, personally.
